DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 11/2/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1, 2, and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, the right and left upper, lower, and middle "gelless electrodes" are unclear because it appears that the upper, lower and middle electrodes are a single electrode. It is suggested to claim these elements as a right (and left) upper (and lower and middle) "gelless electrode portion."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless—

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 13, 15, 18, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Castelli (US 5,713,365, hereinafter "Castelli").

6. In regards to claim 13, Castelli discloses a device for measuring ECG (col. 1, line 37) comprising right and left finger gelless electrodes distant from the edges (7 and 8) on the upper surface (Fig. 1), an information display on the top surface (5), and a calculation system within the shell (3).

7. In regards to claim 15, the electrodes are made of conductive metal (col. 2, line 4).

8. In regards to claim 18, the calculation system comprises a pre-signal amplify circuit (Fig. 3, portion of circuit left of "Vm(t)"), an electrocardio signal amplify/filter circuit (Fig. 3, portion of circuit right of "Vm(t)"), an A/D converter (col. 2, line 17), and a CPU (22), wherein the calculation system displays results on the information display "continuously" over at least one clock cycle (col. 3, line 21).

9. In regards to claim 21, the device comprises a cover (2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

12. Claims 14, 16, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Castelli. Castelli discloses the essential features of the claimed invention except for providing a top surface having at least one button; providing electrodes made of conductive rubber; or displaying ST segment, QRS interval, and heart beat rate. It is well known in the electrophysiology arts to provide ECG monitors having a top surface having at least one button to provide the predictable result of modifying various operating parameters; providing electrodes made of conductive rubber to provide the predictable results of providing an acquisition means that is durable and pliable; and displaying various parameters such as ST segment, QRS interval, and heart beat rate to provide the predictable result of accurately determining a patient's heart performance. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Castelli's invention by providing an ECG monitor having a top surface having at least one button to provide the predictable result of modifying various operating parameters; providing electrodes made of conductive rubber to provide the predictable results of providing an acquisition means that is durable and pliable; and displaying various parameters such as ST segment, QRS interval, and heart beat rate to provide the predictable result of accurately determining a patient's heart performance.

Allowable Subject Matter

13. Claims 1, 2, and 4-6 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Response to Arguments

14. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 13, 15, 18, and 21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection, necessitated by amendment.
